Textbook: PreCalculus Concepts Through Functions, Sullivan, Sullivan, 3rd Edition, Pearson.

Attendance: Daily attendance is expected but is not graded. You will be responsible for material covered in class.

Homework: You should be practicing mathematics daily. Assignments will be done online at mymathlab.com and written. Late homework will rarely be accepted.

Exams: There are three exams and a final. If you must miss an exam, you must notify me before the scheduled exam. If your final is higher than your lowest exam, the grade on the final will replace the lowest exam score.

Z-Grade: The Z grade is an instructor initiated option to withdraw a student from a class after the official withdraw date has passed. A Z grade will not be given for non-attendance or to anyone who has not completed all of the course work.

Cheating: A grade of 0.0 will be given for anyone caught cheating, attempting to cheat or helping a classmate cheat.

Calculator: A TI graphing calculator is recommended. You will need a minimum of a scientific calculator.

Grading:

Exams/Quizzes/Final	85%
Homework	15%

To calculate the decimal grade, take your percentage, subtract 53 then divide by 10.
